Arches and Canyonlands National Parks Pocket Guide Fodor's Travel Publications

Arches National Park in eastern Utah is one of the most unique places on the planet. It contains an immense array of sandstone sculptures, including fins, spires, pinnacles, balanced rocks, and natural arches. The arches range in size from small openings to enormous spans measuring nearly 300 feet across. Renowned photographer Grant Collier has photographed the most popular rock formations in Arches National Park, along with many remote and little known natural wonders. He has captured the brilliant display of wildflowers in spring, the blazing color of cottonwoods in autumn, and the remarkable beauty of white snow against red rock in winter. Collier has also spent countless nights photographing the rock formations beneath a canopy of stars, planets, and meteors. His images provide a stunning new perspective on this extraordinary national park.

Utah's five national parks--Arches, Bryce, Canyonlands, Capitol Reef, and Zion--hold some of the most awe-inspiring geology on the planet. Each park offers visitors the dramatic scenery that invites exploration and discovery. In 50 Best Short Hikes in Utah's National Parks, veteran hiking guide Greg Witt shares the best routes in each park, hikes that are both "must see" and accessible. Park visitors who are short on time will find this book to be the ideal traveling companion, because it quickly helps readers identify the hikes and sights that will make the best use of their time and provide maximum enjoyment. Each hike in the book includes distances, highlights, area maps, and easy-to-follow trailhead directions to make hike selection fast and efficient. Once on the trail, the detailed maps, route description, and interpretive details insure that hikers get the most out of their trip. Even avid hikers and experienced desert explorers will find new insights and discoveries as Witt's interesting and approachable style details the geologic forces that created this landscape. He brings to life the human history--prehistoric cliff-dwellers, native tribes, ranchers, farmers, loggers, miners, and outlaws--that adds to the color of the Colorado Plateau where these five parks are set. Utah's Big Five National Parks Collier Pub

centennial. With just a compact car, a pop-up tent, and spirited ambition, I set out on a month long camping road trip through the American Southwest to visit as many National Parks as possible and soak up the rich beauty and wonder only found in the wild. - The journey created a story of its own with episodes of whim and sheer adventure from falling into Bryce Canyon, getting lost in the Rocky Mountains, summiting Nevada's highest peak, exploring rural ghost towns, to watching seals swim onto California's Golden Coast. - As I retell my adventure I also journal my musings from out on the trails of how the beauty of nature inspires me and causes me to look inward. I explore the concept of being unwavering and what it means to traverse my own spiritual canyons. - Inspired by the writings of John Muir and Theodore Roosevelt, and staying true to the fans of my adventure blog, join me on this adventure and journey of self-discovery. We will climb mountains, traverse canyons, and discover what it means to be free and wild. -

Features 47 chronological accounts and over 100 photos from Saguaro National Park, Petrified Forest National Park, Bryce Canyon National Park, Capitol Reef National Park, Arches National Park, Canyonlands National Park, Black Canyon of the Gunnison National Park, Rocky Mountain National Park, Great Basin National Park, and Pinnacles National Park - Perfect for National Park lovers and adventure seekers!
