Biennial Report

Serena Mitchell, very unlike her free-spirited sister played by the rules. Poised, polite and polished, she observed the world behind square frames and a guarded heart. But then she met Landon West and she learned some rules were highly overrated. Fast forward three months: Serena Mitchell has changed. She was in love. With her boss. With her father's best friend. A father who is dangerously close to finding out their secret. This wasn't supposed to happen. She wasn't prepared to lose anything at the end of the school year except mind numbing orgasms. Not her father. Not the love of her life. And certainly not her heart. Second Semester can be read as a stand-alone and the second in the Campus Tales Series

First Semester

This book is written from the perspective of a Biology teacher. If you are a teacher, student, parent or someone who took Biology in high school, you will enjoy this book. Faculty meetings, academic team meetings, parent phone calls along with scientific method, ecology, genetics and evolution are brought to life in Mr. Smith's second period biology class. This book is more than that; it is educational satire that you may or may not find funny. If you are easily offended, pass on this one. However, if you are a thinking person, who understands that each of us is unique, with our own faults and proclivities and with the ability to laugh at ourselves and each other, this is the book for you. Enjoy

Biennial Report of the Superintendent of Public Instruction, State of Illinois

My rebound wasn't supposed to be the best sex of my life. He definitely wasn't supposed to walk into class Monday morning on my first day of college. He wasn't supposed to be my teacher. He did things to my body that no man had ever done before. Things I wanted him to do again And again. And again. But the man I had in my bed two days ago was now off limits. He was my teacher. I was his student. I couldn't have him...I wanted him anyway. First Semester is a 50,000 word stand-alone novel and the first in The Campus Tales series.
